New classified ad service

In this economy, any leg up is appreciated by those who are out of work. To that end, we are introducing a "Looking for work" section in this month's classified advertisements (see page 12). Rebuilders who are out of work are invited to submit up to 35 words with basic information such as work experience, type of work desired, location or willingness to relocate, and all contact information. This free service is intended to put employers together with our talented readers who may have fallen on hard times.

Rebuilders may submit ads via email to polly@erenewspaper.com or by fax to (913) 642-6743 by the 10th of the month for publication in the next issue. If you are currently employed and don't want your employer to know you are looking for another job, we are not able to run blind ads. Employers, please note that we will not screen these ads and are not endorsing anyone for employment.

Here's hoping the economy will turn around quickly and this service will only be needed for the short term.
